INTRODUCTION

Data Bank

Prior to 1976 all statistical and descriptive data relative to non-public schools, exclusive of graduate data, were published annually in the Florida Education Directory. Because of the primary use of the Directory and the need for greater utilization of the data collected, the data obtained from the 1975-76 Non-Public School Data Base Survey has been divided. Beginning with the 1976-77 Directory only descriptive information is given. This information consists of the following:

1) Name of school
2) Location of school
3) Name of school principal
4) Grade range of school
5) Type of student body (boys, girls, coeducational)
6) Control of school
7) Registration status
8) Accreditation status

All identifiable statistical data are contained in two documents each published annually by the Department. General enrollment data, trends, and faculty descriptions are found in this series, Non-Public Schools in Florida. Graduate data are found in Florida High School Graduates/Promotion and Non-Promotion. The types of data contained in these publications are as follows:

Non-Public Schools in Florida, 1975-76

- Name of school
- Grade enrollment
- School personnel
- Enrollment estimates
- Type of instructional program
- Organization of schools
- Religious affiliation of schools
- Accreditation

High School Graduates

- Name of school
- Total graduates in class
- Graduates attending specified type of post secondary institution

Purpose

The purpose of this document is to provide a source of base line data for educational planners in public and private schools and to indicate the extent of non-public schools and their impact on public school systems in Florida. This document also satisfies the legislative mandate of the Department of Education to maintain "a centralized registry where current information may be obtained" relative to non-public elementary and secondary schools.

The data collected and disseminated in this report is currently utilized by several units of state and federal government including compensatory education, libraries and learning resources, Florida Legislature, Bureau of Economic and Business Research at the University of Florida, and the U.S. Bureau of the Census. In addition to allocations for education programs, these data are used to develop interim population estimates, which are in turn used in allocating, among others, highway funds.

Authority

Section 229.808, Florida Statutes, sets forth the requirement that the Florida Department of Education annually collect certain data including "the name and address of the institution, names of administrative officers, enrollment, and the number of teachers" for "each individual, association copartnership or corporation which designates itself as an elementary, secondary, business, technical or grade school below college level..."

This law is not compulsory with respect to the schools for which the data are to be available. Section 229.808(2) provides an exemption to the requirement that non-public schools provide certain data by stating that any "institution publishing an annual catalog containing the information as required by the registration form may file copies of such catalog in lieu of the registration form" and that any institution accredited by the Florida Council of Independent Schools, incorporated under Chapter 623, Florida Statutes, or operated by established religious bodies do not come within the provisions of this act.

Sources

Section 229.808(2), Florida Statutes provides that the Department devise a form to solicit such data as required for the registry. This form, "Non-Public School Data Base," is included in the Appendix to this document. To complete the non-public school data bank other sources of "hard" and "soft" data are utilized. These include records from the Florida Highway Patrol, County Health Departments, district sources, telephone books, Division of Corporations, municipal bureaus of occupational licenses, and various associations.

Definitions

For the purposes of this report "private school" and "non-public school" are synonymous and include all individuals, associations, copartnerships, or departments (divisions, sections, etc.) of such organizations which designate themselves as educational day-care centers or kindergartens which are not licensed pursuant to § 402.308, F.S., or as elementary, secondary or grade schools below college level or which provide these services in lieu of the public school system. This definition does not differentiate between profit and non-profit organizations. The types of schools included in this definition include military schools, preparatory schools, boarding schools, non-military non-parochial (i.e., privately owned) schools, denominational and non-denominational parochial schools, private religious schools, residential treatment centers and hospital schools whose programs include instruction or training for students who would qualify, by Florida law, to attend kindergarten or grades 1 through 12 in the public school system. Not included in this definition (and this report) are individual tutorial operations, demonstration schools operated by the state university system, or schools operated by the Department of Health and Rehabilitative Services.

EXTENT OF NON-PUBLIC SCHOOLS IN FLORIDA, 1975-76

PRIVATE SCHOOL MEMBERSHIP, 1975-76

Table I (pages 7-25) provides for each non-public school a breakdown of student membership by grade or special group. Most of the data are actual counts of students and are accurate as of the last day of the first month of the academic year 1975-76. Additional data are estimates and were obtained from other sources.

Actual enrollment is shown for grades 1 through 12 and for kindergarten and prekindergarten. Some schools provided total enrollment figures only but indicated the grade span of the instructional program. In these instances the entry for an individual school shows total enrollment in two columns, one labeled "other" and one labeled "total," and an "NA" ("not available") in each column representing the grades that the school operates an instructional program. Schools, hospitals and treatment centers which operate ungraded or exceptional child programs show membership data in only two columns, "other" and "total."

Table I lists all known non-public schools operating an elementary, secondary, or exceptional child program in 1975-76. On the basis of discrepancies in population estimates, letters and other communications, this list contains approximately 95% of all those schools operating at these levels in Florida. Private educational entities which provide programs for children exclusively under the compulsory attendance age are classified in Florida as Day Care Centers. Of these centers, Table I includes all those known to include at least a first grade in their program. Those centers with pre-kindergarten or kindergarten programs exclusively were included only if they solicited and voluntarily returned the "Non-Public School Data Base" survey instrument.

FULL-TIME AND PART-TIME EMPLOYEES, 1975-76

Table III provides a state summary of the number of paid individuals who perform a specified instructional task in a non-public school.

No data are provided for individual counties since in many this would be based on one school and would provide no insight into non-public schools as a group.

The Non-Public School Data Base Survey instrument (see appendix) collected personnel data in eight (8) areas, prekindergarten instructors exclusively, kindergarten instructors exclusively, elementary teachers (grades 1-6), secondary teachers (grades 7-12), librarians and media specialists, guidance personnel, administrators, and other professional personnel. Coaches, and business and trade personnel were included in the grade level area in which they spent the most time.

In those cases in which an individual was employed full-time but performed several disparate tasks, he was counted as full-time in the area of greatest importance or in which he spent most time.

Statistics for full-time personnel indicate actual numbers of full-time personnel (headcount). However, these data do not indicate the full array of functions performed by an individual. These same restrictions apply to part-time personnel. In addition, in this category no attempt was made to determine the percent of full-time employment.

Statistics on support personnel including secretaries, clerks, aides, and para-professionals were not collected. In addition no data were collected on volunteer personnel. Due to differences in the philosophy and in the financial structure of non-public schools as compared to public schools, this is a significant deficiency. Without these data no accurate description of the classroom environment in non-public schools is possible.

The data in this table are based on reports from 656 of the 1021 schools known to exist and are accurate as of October 1, 1976 or as of the end of the first pay period. No comparisons with public schools or between counties are possible with these data.

ANALYSIS

GROWTH OF NON-PUBLIC SCHOOLS

Although non-public schools have always been an alternative to public schools, their influence on the total educational milieu has been minimal until quite recently. Throughout the 1930's and 1940's enrollment, non-public schools remained at 3% or less of that of the total K-12 enrollment. In the Fall of 1949-50 there were 21,000 pupils attending non-public schools which had registered with the Department of Education. This amounted to 4.19% of the total school age population.[1] At this point the majority of these schools were supported by the Catholic Dioceses in Florida or were "traditional" preparatory schools or boys military academic schools.

As the pace of growth quickened in Florida after 1950, the growth of non-public schools accelerated. In 1960-61 the total enrollment in non-public schools was approximately 4 times that of the 1950-51 enrollment.[2] The rapid rate of growth only began to slow in 1970-71 after the total estimated enrollment in non-public schools had surpassed 205,000. The twenty year period 1950-51 through 1970-71 produced an enrollment 8.37 times as large at the end of the period as at the beginning.[3] The estimated enrollment in non-public schools in 1975-76 amounted to 216,286 or about 12.27% of the total school age population.[4] During the 25 year period of rapid growth, the character of the non-public school changed in Florida. While Catholic parochial schools were still the largest single group in 1975-76, they comprised only a fraction (18.4%) of all schools. Parochial schools of all types, however, did constitute a slight majority.

STUDENT MEMBERSHIP - KNOWN NON-PUBLIC SCHOOLS, 1950-1976

Table IV, on the following three pages, provides a summary of student membership in known non-public schools for academic years 1949-50 through 1975-76. Aggregate data is provided for all levels, Kindergarten and grades 1 through 12 for each county.

Although actual growth in student membership in non-public schools has actually formed a reasonably smooth progression in the 26-year period, Table IV does not show this to be the case. The reason for this can be largely attributed to two factors: the lack of authority to collect data; and the method of data collection. All authority to acquire non-public data is contained in § 229.808, F.S.[1] Submission of data under this statute is not mandatory.

In Table IV, the data presented for academic years 1949-50 through 1959-60 are derived from State and Southern Association accreditation records. These data account for between 30 and 76 percent of the actual non-public school membership. Data for academic years 1960-61 through 1962-63 were obtained from special surveys conducted in the Fall of those years by the Bureau of Research. Data for academic years 1963-64 through 1973-74 were derived from the annual Fall registration of non-public schools. During these years data ranged from about 67 to 76 percent complete. Data for 1974-75 are derived from a special ESEA Title IV survey of non-public schools. 1975-76 data comes from the Non-Public School Data Base (see appendix). These data are approximately 95 percent complete for grades 1 through 12 and 82 percent complete if kindergarten is included.

Table IV summarizes data for all known schools commonly classified as non-public schools, private schools, preparatory schools, boarding and day schools, military academies, and parochial schools. Elementary and secondary schools on military bases were counted as "non-public" until they were annexed by the public school system. Such schools were located, among others, in Bay, Brevard, and Okaloosa Counties. Except for the counties with small non-public school enrollments, the change is not noticeable in the statistics (for example, compare Bay County statistics for 1970-71 and 1971-72). The statistics in Table IV do not include data for the University demonstration schools, Division of Youth Services schools, Sunland Centers, or other special state schools not generally accessible to the public.

GROWTH OF ESTIMATED TOTAL NON-PUBLIC SCHOOL ENROLLMENT

Figure I depicts in graphic form the growth of the estimated total non-public school enrollment in Florida from 1949-50 through 1975-76. The data used in deriving this graph were estimates of enrollment for separate years, and were calculated using assumptions parallel to those for Table V.

ESTIMATED TRUE NON-PUBLIC SCHOOLS ENROLLMENT, 1975-76

Table V provides a synthetic estimate of the actual number of school aged individuals in Florida who attended non-public schools in 1975-76. The data in the table are not based solely on the returned survey instruments or other official records as are Tables I and IV. This table does include hard data but in addition contains data based on calculations made from current age group population estimates and from other related indicators.

The estimated number of children attending non-public kindergartens in Florida in 1975-76 was 47,242. This figure amounts to slightly more than three times the number of children accounted for in the registration process. Kindergarten as used here refers to "K-5" or kindergarten for five year olds. "K-4," prekindergarten, preschool, and nursery school children are not included in this estimate. The assumption underlying this estimate was that at least 95 percent of the eligible population of 5 year olds were attending kindergarten on some basis (half-day, full-day, etc.) at some point during academic year 1975-76.

To arrive at this estimate, public school kindergarten children were eliminated from 95% of the July 1, 1975 estimated number of 5 year olds. On an individual county basis, to the number of known private school kindergarten children, were added "synthetic[1]" children on the basis County Health Department lists of licensed day care centers, active telephone numbers, and average pupil teacher ratios. The non-public school data base accounts for 14,228 kindergarten students in 540 schools. County Health Department records reveal an additional 1100 centers licensed for kindergarten. Although estimates were based on individual county statistics no attempt has been made to reconcile these data with the location of the kindergarten. In Wakulla County, for example, 32 children are estimated to attend non-public kindergarten. Since only one daycare center with kindergarten exists, it is assumed that the remainder of these children attend school in a neighboring county.

Estimates for grades 1 through 12 are heavily based on the data base survey but are supplemented by other information such as estimates based on previous year enrollments. Such calculations add only about 6,705 or about 4.1%.

1 "Synthetic" here means children who are known to exist on the basis of resident births five years prior, and current age level population estimates. These children are "synthetic" only in the sense that their actual location of schooling is unknown.

NUMBER OF SCHOOLS WITH SPECIFIED GRADES

Table VI provides a summary of the number of schools in each county which provide instruction at elementary and secondary grade levels. Exceptional child and non-graded tutorial programs are not included in this breakdown.

The number of entries for any grade in a county indicates the number of different schools which include that grade in their educational program. For example, in Alachua County, ten different schools have a first grade program, and nine have a second grade program, etc. This table does not indicate the total number of classes at all schools for a specified grade in a county.

SCHOOLS BY ORGANIZATIONAL LEVEL

Table VII provides a state summary of the number of schools by organizational level. For elementary, secondary, exceptional, and combination schools, the totals for each category are approximately 95% complete. Kindergarten and pre-kindergarten levels are considered to be "day care" operations. The totals for these classifications are less than 30% complete.

For the purposes of this table the following definitions were used:

Pre-Kindergarten Schools: Contain nursery or pre-kindergarten ("K-3," "K-4") children only. All students are 5 years of age or less.

Pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten Schools: Must contain kindergarten (for five year olds) but no higher grade. May contain pre-kindergarten or nursery.

Elementary Schools: Contain at least one grade between one and six and no grade higher than eight. May contain nursery, pre-kindergarten or kindergarten in combination with any grade (usually) less than six. The most common combinations of grades in this category are K-3, K-6, and K-8 (especially Catholic parochial).

Secondary Schools: Contain no grade less than seven.

Exceptional Education Schools: Contain programs for specific groups of students. Schools in this classification could not be determined to be members of any other category. (Note: compare N=42 in Table VII with N=58 in Table VIII. Exceptional child program in Table VIII includes exceptional pre-school and kindergarten programs as well as graded, elementary, or secondary exceptional programs.)

Other and Combination Schools: Contain all grades K or 1-12 or any undefinable combination of grades. Schools for which no data are available are also included here.

SCHOOLS BY PREDOMINANT PROGRAM TYPE, 1975-76

Table VIII provides the total number of non-public schools (as listed in Table I) by predominant program type.

For the purposes of this analysis the following definitions were used:

Exceptional Child: Any program designed to meet the special needs of children who cannot function in a traditional instructional mileau. Generally this classification includes programs for EMR, TMR, emotionally and socially maladjusted, physically handicapped and certain gifted children.

Tutorial: Any program designed to instruct or enrich the instruction of a child, usually on a ratio of one to one.

Regular Instructional Program: A general instructional program providing simultaneous learning opportunities and services for the majority of pupils. Traditional, contained, and open classes, personalized and individualized instruction, and A.C.E. and other programs of similar type are included here. This category also includes those pre-kindergarten and kindergarten centers which have registered with the Department of Education by completing the Data Base instrument in the Appendix.

SCHOOLS BY TYPE AND RELIGIOUS AFFILIATION

Table IX is a state summary of non-public schools by type and by religious affiliation.

In this analysis all schools have been classified into four major categories on the basis of information supplied on the data base instrument. These were defined as follows:

Military schools: non-public elementary and secondary schools not affiliated with any church or religion and which offer, at a minimum as a regular part of the curriculum, military training, theory, or drill, etc.

Private, non-parochial schools: non-public schools below grade 13 which are not supported or controlled by, or affiliated with a church or association, one of the major purposes of which is religious instruction. This category includes most traditional preparatory and boarding schools, montessori schools, and numerous Christian academies.

Parochial schools: non-public schools below grade 13 which are supported or sponsored by a church or religious group, or which are members of a conference or groups controlled by church or religious group. Included in this group are "private" Catholic schools.

Schools of unknown type: schools not completing the data base survey form whose type could not be determined.

GENERAL INFORMATION

1) Insert the name of the County in which the school is located.
2) Insert the name of the school and its mailing address. Use abbreviations if they are commonly accepted.
3) Insert the name of the director (principal, president, headmaster) of this school and the date on which this survey was completed.
4) There are two lines for indicating school type. Check only one box in each line. Check only one box indicating the type of non-public school. If the school is parochial, insert religious affiliation or the word "non-denominational" in the space provided. Non-parochial, as used here, means any private or independent school or educational institution which is not parochial or military.
5) Check only one box indicating the predominant type of instructional programs at this school. A regular program, as used here, means the general program of instruction which provides learning opportunities and services for the majority of pupils.
6) Check (✓) whether this school is a profit or non-profit organization according to the following definition.

   Non-Profit as applied to a school means a school owned and operated by one or more nonprofit corporations or associations, no part of the net earnings of which inures, or may lawfully inure, to the benefit of any private shareholder or individual.

This information will be used to determine the school's eligibility to participate in federally funded education assistance programs.

PUPIL INFORMATION

Insert the pupil membership for each grade level or group as of the end of the first month of the 1975-76 academic year in the appropriate boxes. Do not include any post-secondary level classes or students, or infants in day care operations.

FACULTY INFORMATION

For each employment level or classification, indicate the number of full-time and part-time professional personnel employed on October 1, 1975. Include coaches, and business and trade personnel in the appropriate grade levels. Do not include secretaries, clerks, aides, para-professionals, or other non-instructional or volunteer personnel. If an individual is employed full-time but performs several types of tasks count him as full-time in the area of greatest importance or most time. For this report, elementary includes grades 1-6 and secondary, grades 7-12.

GRADUATE INFORMATION

This section replaces the Non-Public School Twelfth Grade Graduate Survey normally completed in January of each year. If this school had any graduates during the 1974-75 school year (Spring, 1975), insert the number of students in each category in the boxes provided. If exact figures are not readily available a considered estimate will be satisfactory.
